

Disclaimer:

alextalksdiet is run by Alex Ballard; a UK Registered Dietitian with the Health and Care Professions Council (HCPC) and the British Dietetic Association (BDA). Alex aims to use her scientific knowledge, clinical skills and expertise in an accurate and professional manner.

Alex adheres to the HCPC standards, which stipulates that any advertising must be accurate and done in a responsible way. Alex will not make or support unjustifiable statements relating to products or services (as per HCPC and BDA guidelines) or promote one product over another (as per food industry regulations). Any potential financial rewards will not play a part in the advice or recommendations of products or services offered.

Alex adheres to the Internet Advertising Bureau (IAB) UK and Advertising Standards Authority (ASA) guidelines for sponsorship and advertising, which states that it must be made clear when an individual has been paid for a promotional post or product review (i.e. by including #sp or #ad in posts). Alex pledges to disclose any sponsored posts, advertising and product reviews whether this be monetary or in the form of free products. Any product reviews or posts will be based on Alex's own opinion, even if sponsored. alextalksdiet does not currently partake in advertising or reviews.

The information and advice offered by alextalksdiet is solely educational and provides general advice only for the adult population. Information offered on the alextalksdiet website, blog and social media accounts is not a substitute for seeing a Registered Dietitian or another qualified healthcare professional. All opinions are Alex's own views.

Please email me with any questions about my disclosure policies at info@alextalksdiet.com.